

IN MEMORY

In early January 2010 Daphne Brimacombe who lived for many years at 100 Addison Road wrote to the current owners of the property enclosing a donation towards the Spike. Daphne offered this money in the memory of a workhouse character she remembers well – she wrote:

“In memory of Jim Jelly who used to call at 100 and then 98 (when Nan died), when he visited the workhouse. I remember him well standing at the back door.”
